

Dr Cooper: Hi, George. I was wondering if you could tell us a little bit about Boris Johnson because he's one of the most famous politicians in England, isn't' he?

George: He is. He is the former Foreign Secretary for the United Kingdom.

Dr Cooper: What's that mean, Foreign Secretary?

George: In the British government, the Foreign Secretary is the member of Parliament most responsible for dealing with other countries, so international politics.

George: Boris Johnson is, he looks a bit like Donald Trump, I suppose. Like a more English Donald Trump? Blonde, kind of shaggy hair. He's very posh. He went to a very famous school and then went to the same university-

Dr Cooper: When you say he went to a very famous school, what do you mean, a famous school?

George: An old historical boarding school, very traditional old school.

Dr Cooper: What was the name of that school?

George: I think it was Eaton.

Dr Cooper: Oh, I've heard of it.

George: Need to Google it. And then he went to the same university that you and I went to, Oxford University. And is a very kind of posh, right wing politician in the United Kingdom.

Dr Cooper: Is he very right wing?

George: No. I wouldn't say he's right wing in the sense of fascism, he's just right wing on the spectrum of British politics. So he would be in the conservative party and he would be a Euro skeptic.

Dr Cooper: What's that mean, a Euro skeptic?

George: Someone who does not want further engagement with the European Union and is slightly more isolationist in their politics.

Dr Cooper: Are you worried about this no Brexit thing? What's going on?

George: It's taking a lot of time, that's the big worry, I would say.

Dr Cooper: Yeah. Do you think that the sky is going to come crashing down?

George: No. I do not.

Dr Cooper: What's Boris Johnson think about these ideas that Brexit is going to cause English destruction?

George: He was one of the main driving forces behind it, so he was one of the most involved politicians in the leave of the European Union campaign. So I suppose he's not very happy at the moment because nothing has happened. That's all I know about his personal feelings.
