

Dr. Cooper: Hi, Christina.

Christina: Hi.

Dr. Cooper: Yesterday. They opened the pubs.

Christina: I know. And you went there.

Dr. Cooper: I didn't go to a pub.

Christina: Where did you go?

Dr. Cooper: I'm not crazy. I didn't go to a pub. I looked at the pubs from outside.

Christina: Oh, were there a lot of people inside?

Dr. Cooper: There weren't a lot of people inside. I was surprised.

Christina: I'm surprised too. I thought....

Dr. Cooper: What did you think?

Christina: I thought that there would be more people.

Dr. Cooper: Well, there were... Last night, I went at 8:00 pm. Maybe later there were more people.

Christina: Probably. What about in London? Were there a lot of people in the pubs in London?

Dr. Cooper: I read on the internet and I saw that there were a lot of people and I saw a picture and there was a big crowd in Soho.

Christina: Oh no.

Dr. Cooper: Wait, you need to ask me: "What's Soho?"

Christina: What's Soho?

Dr. Cooper: Soho is a neighborhood in London.

Christina: Is it a fancy neighborhood?

Dr. Cooper: Yes, it's fancy.

Christina: So, are there gonna be a lot of people in the pubs in Oxford soon?

Dr. Cooper: I don't know, because I don't know if there are gonna be a lot of students in Oxford.

Christina: Hmm. Maybe there aren't gonna be a lot of students because all students study online.

Dr. Cooper: But I think the university is gonna open up in October.

Christina: Okay. So, maybe there are gonna be more students in September.

Dr. Cooper: Are we going to be here in September?

Christina: Probably.

Dr. Cooper: Oh no.
